Street Play on Superstitious Beliefs, 2025

13-05-2025

Venue:
Darrang College,
Tezpur

Time: 10:00 am

Date: 13-05-2025

NSS Unit darrang College in collaboration with IQAC Darrang College organised a thought-provoking street play titled against Superstitious Beliefs on 13-05-2025 . The programme brought together students, faculty members and volunteers who wanted to engage with meaningful social themes.

The street play team performed the play in front of the administrative block. The play focused on how superstitions continue to influenced the people in many communities. Using humour, sharp dialogue and simple yet powerful situations, the performers highlighted how blind beliefs can mislead people and create fear. They showed how these ideas are often passed down without questioning and how awareness and education can break the cycle.

The audience responded well to the performance. Many students appreciated how the actors blended entertainment with a strong message. The play encouraged viewers to think critically and to challenge harmful customs that hold back social progress. Faculty members praised the performers for choosing a relevant theme and presenting it in a way that connected easily with the crowd.

The programme concluded with a short interaction between the performers and the audience, where students shared their thoughts on why rational thinking matters in a modern society. The organisers thanked everyone for their participation and support.

Overall, the event was engaging, educational and socially meaningful. It honoured a respected figure and used art to spread awareness, making it a memorable experience for the Darrang College community.
